Briefly describe Method of Manufacturing	PEPTITE-2000® is a synthetic peptide containing the RGD cell attachment sequence. This RGD peptide has been specifically engineered to spontaneously adhere to a variety of surfaces. This binding is mediated via a hydroscopic C-terminal sequence. The RGD motif is present at the N-terminal end of the peptide, allowing for optimal cell attachment via integrin receptors.

The above information has been completed by an authorized representative of management and is complete and correct to my knowledge.
